LEAGUE FACES A SHOW DOWN

Harding Challenges Advocates to Deal With Real Facts in Case.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—The League of Nations has challenged the advocates of American membership in the League of Nations to prove that American or the world in general would have been any better off today for the matter of collecting reparations from Germany if the United States had joined the league. For many months, since the European crisis has been developing, there have been statements in the press and by letter on the part of republicans and democrats of the pro-League over of thinking that the League of Nations would have been a full fledged participant instead of a casual observer in European affairs. The president, without desiring to open the old controversy, has good reasons for not calling the attention of these critics to the fact that, under the covenant of the league, unanimous action is required for every important step taken by the council. How, asks Mr. Harding, in effect, would France have been persuaded to give her consent to a revision of the Versailles treaty provisions about reparations or about the other claims which she feels are absolutely just? Would the plans of the allied powers in the meetings of the council of the league develop any more effective than the policy of diplomacy which has been gone for so many months?

No French Yielding
Plainly Mr. Harding doesn't think the council of the league, even with American activity participating, would have done any more good than the informal petitions of Secretary Hughes through diplomatic channels or Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, through his spokesmen. The French have shown such a tenacity that Mr. Harding doesn't think they would have yielded to the league on any of the points of the covenant which the president and Secretary Hughes have of their functions and power is one of limited jurisdiction. "They do not think one sovereign or any other body of men," says Mr. Harding, "can do anything which the latter doesn't want to do. At first this was considered to be the main fault of the covenant, but the argument on the theory that every nation surrendered its sovereignty to the council of the league which became the supreme government and could make nations take up arms against their own will. The defenders of the covenant said this was erroneous and insisted that unanimous action was required to make the council's work active."

See Moral Influence
Friends of the league of nations covenant have declared that the greatest value of the league was in the exercise of moral influence rather than physical force. They contend today that if America had joined three years ago, a spirit of conciliation and mediation would have been brought to European controversies which would have prevented them from being brought to a head as they have been in recent weeks. But their strongest point is that Germany never had dared to resist France if the actor of the league council had been unanimous and if Germany were given the united opinion of the whole world. In fact, the argument resembles very much the speculation that always will exist as to whether Germany would have gone to war in 1914 if she had desisted that England would enter the fray at once in defense of Belgium or if she had had the remotest suspicion that the United States could be dragged into the conflict body and soul.

Points Conference Good
Nobody probably will be able to answer Mr. Harding's challenge to the satisfaction of the historians. The League of Nations today is in existence and is not interfering in the dispute over the Ruhr. Mr. Harding told callers in the last 24 hours that the league still has the power to undertake the settlement of the reparations controversy but evidently is not doing it. If the league can't do it, what good would it be to the world? Mr. Harding is proposing? That's what the president's query. Lord Curzon has in the last week dumped the Lausanne tangle over near Eastern questions into the lap of the league. Under articles eleven of the covenant any nation can draw to the attention of the league any question which threatens the peace of the world. The league have invoked its good offices. Never before has the league had such a chance to demonstrate what it can do in an European crisis and if it succeeds there is no doubt that a much friendlier attitude toward the league itself would be developed here in Washington. What can the league do? Mr. Harding is an interested inquirer.

Thrilling Journey
OF 55 MILES OVER ICE SAVES 2 LIVES
Sturgeon Bay—A heroic dash across the thin ice of Death's Door passage here, driven sleighs, from Washington Island to Sturgeon Bay, saved the lives of Oliver Bejaranson, 13, and Charles Jensen, 19, who were critically ill and in need of surgical attention.

The 55 mile trip across the perilous ice fields and blocked roads was made by Captain George Moe and his crew from the Point Island coast guard station, and the dash was marked by many narrow escapes from cracking ice, and only the great speed at which the sleighs traveled brought them through.

The trip occupied more than three hours.

At the Theatres
AT THE MOVIE
There were two features at the Devorey at the opening of the new program for the week-end. The first Sunday "The Sin Flood" was the featured attraction, but, after Keaton in "The Electric House" proved to be unusually good and a valuable addition to the program, which also included Harold Lloyd comedy and Urban Movie Chats.

"The Sin Flood" is an unusual picture of regeneration. Its local, its theme that of the good done by a terrible storm and flood. The climactic scene, a heavy door is opened to life by drowning rather than suffocation, is excellent, and storm scenes are thrilling.

Richard Dix, Helene Chadwick, John Stepping, Ralph Lewis and all others play their parts with excellence.

"The Electric House" provides many laughs with its comic situations. Keaton plays the part of an electrician who wires a house with many novel conveniences. All works well until his rivals bring the wires down and makes all conveniences go wrong.

Offense Against Girl Is Charged; Employee Vanishes
Elkhorn—Charles Jefferson, about 30, employed on the Hans Peterson farm at Allens Grove, has disappeared. The missing man was charged with a simultaneous offense against Agnes Morris, 9-year-old step-daughter of Peterson, on Jan. 9. Jefferson has a wife and child.

35 Get Diplomas at Whitewater
Whitewater—Thirty-five completed their courses in the Whitewater normal school and were presented with diplomas at commencement exercises Friday night. The main address was given by Edward J. Demersky, Oshkosh, a member of the state board of normal regents and the state board of education. There was a musical program. The diplomas were presented by President P. S. Hoyer.

EKERN APPROVES OF ANTI-LOTTERY MOVE
Madison—Attorney General Herman L. Ekers approves the stand taken by the previous administration against lottery. His first opinion on this question indicates.

In an opinion written by J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, approved by Mr. Ekers, the returned general holds that prize drawing scheme of merchants in Monroe county is in violation of the law and its backers subject to fine and imprisonment.

The Wisconsin lottery statute is stringent in its provisions.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Wallace Reid.

Editor Gazette:
I don't know when I have read anything that seemed so human and touched me so much as what you wrote about Wallace Reid. It is too true: we do pay and while Wallace Reid was struggling back to a real life he had gone too far to win the victory and live. He died and that is the saddest part of it all. He had to pay.

It seems to me that the first steps are the most dangerous. Hearts are wrung and mothers and wives are punished terribly because there is no money. I have seen this right here in Janesville and it makes me write this.

As you say it is the more terrible when a lovable character like Wallace Reid has come to be a part of us almost by seeing the pictures he played in, will have to pay the penalty.

It is such an editorial as that makes me think and be more and more willing to help in the cause of aiding humanity.

A FRIEND OF MARY'S.

And Then on the Other Hand.
Editor Gazette:
I have never felt the cruelty of unjust criticism as I did reading the reply to "Mary" in regard to Wallace Reid in Tuesday's Gazette. I wonder if the writer has ever heard of the Prodigal son, but it is an exact example of Wallace Reid. After spending his time and substance in pleasure living he came to himself and said, "I will go to my Father" and the father seeing him after all ran to meet him. But the picture of Wallace Reid was making a fight for purity and manhood and his last recorded words were "Tell them I have won the fight. I have come back." Why of us is able to cast the first stone.

A BELIEVER IN JUSTICE.

The Evansville Fair.
Editor Gazette:
I have read with much interest the articles recently published in your paper pertaining to the Evansville fair, and cannot let the subject pass without saying a few words.

The writer had the opportunity of attending several fairs this fall and can say that he did not see any more pumpkins there than at any other fair. By the way, it happens he is also one of the pumpkin prize winners. If seven or eight specimens make a pumpkin show, well, you can call it anything you please. There were several fields of ripe pumpkins near Evansville, and it might have been there in where the pumpkin show was seen.

I spent two days at the Evansville fair and consider the exhibits in all departments excellent. The amusement amusements were of a wholesome nature and if the fair patrons saw even the free attractions, they got their money's worth.

Happy cooperation on the part of all officials and employees of the fair was evident. One very good point manifested was that of closing the gates at certain prices and he won't let children or ladies alone; nobody can walk on the same walk with him because they are afraid he will knock when they had not previously entered them on the list.

Each department was systematically arranged and had someone to take care of the exhibits and watch them throughout the week. Even if they did run behind financially they were the fellows who dug down in their pockets and paid the premium money without a grumble.

It is true the attendance at the fair fell below the usual number due to the extreme hot weather. The fair at Evansville was held during one of the hottest weeks and at a time when the farmers were very busy.

Now, if some of the city folks do not enjoy such fairs as this, I propose that they have one for themselves and, perhaps, have auto racing, boxing or prize fights. Then their country brothers can have attractions of exhibits and the usual attractions of a square deal to all.

AN EXPERIENCED EXHIBITOR.

Street Car "Slugs."
Editor Gazette:
Why is it one finds it so hard to buy street-car tickets on the cars, or at least on some of the cars? Two mornings last week I could not get any from the man on the car leaving Spring Brook at 6:40 a. m. I asked him for tickets he said, "I haven't any—maybe Sam has."

If you or I can buy them in the grocery or drug store why can't the manager of the street car company do the same? I don't know but what it may be to get the 10-cent cash fare, that they have no tickets. If not, why doesn't the manager or superintendent, whatever he calls himself, wake up and see that the men have a few tickets and change for a dollar bill when they start their day's work?

Yours for service,
A RIDER.

In reference to the communication printed above, Supt. Charles Murray of the Janesville Traction company said: "This is the first complaint of this kind I have ever received. I had not known it and shall certainly make an investigation and see that it is corrected."

Moonsaline Joints.
Editor Gazette:
Here are a few questions I would like answered. Why aren't the moonshine joints in this city cleaned up? Spring Brook is full of moonshine and also South Janesville. That is a disgrace to mankind.

They don't care who knows it; if you have the price for it, you get it. They must sell something at South Janesville to make the men so crazy that they drive their cars 40 or 50 miles an hour and from side to side of the road, so beastly drunk they can't hold up their heads. People along this road are afraid to go to town for fear of being run over by the drunken drivers. I called the police Sunday, Jan. 21, and reported a man here in Spring Brook that is drunk constantly and he won't let children or ladies alone; nobody can walk on the same walk with him because they are afraid he will knock them down. Why can't there be something done with such a man?

I think the mothers, wives and sisters will gather hand-in-hand and help clean up these hell-holes as long as the police won't come near. I do hope they clean houses before summer comes so the good people can walk out and not be afraid of their lives.

It is too bad men cannot leave the moonshine alone on Sunday when they know of all the working people that like to go out in the fresh, open air and they don't want to get off the sidewalk for such men. Now, I do hope someone will look into this matter and help the working people that have no car and have to walk.

HEARING CALLED ON TRAFFIC BILLS

Highway Committee to Hold Open Meeting, Wednesday Night.

Automobile owners, merchants and the public in general will have opportunity to voice their views on the proposed traffic ordinances now pending the council at a highway committee hearing at the city hall at 8 p. m., Wednesday. The open meeting has been called by Alder J. Dulin, chairman of the council highway committee.

The new traffic regulations are scheduled to come before the council for final action next Monday night, but prior to voting, the aldermen are anxious to sound out public sentiment and weigh carefully the arguments for and against the proposals.

One measure would require parallel parking of cars throughout the city with the exception of two blocks on North and South Main street between Court and angular parking would be permitted.

The other bill would allow no complete, thoroughfare or half-thoroughfare street traffic. The only turns permissible would be quarter-turns to the right or the left, making it necessary for a driver to reverse his car when desiring to reverse his course on Milwaukee street.

Members of the council highway committee are: J. Dulin, chairman; J. A. Spohn, A. J. Gibbons, W. W. Menzies, J. C. Harlow, E. H. Ransom and L. J. Cronin.

TRADE SCHOOL TO HAVE MORE ROOM

Opening of New High School Provides All of Lincoln School.

While the vocational school here is not to have use of the new high school building, the completion of it will give the vocational schools much more room, and starting Tuesday, will allow them the entire Lincoln building, which has been used for many years by the eighth and seventh grades, will now be at the disposal of the vocational school, as the grades are to be the junior high school.

The old seventh grade room on the first floor is to be used as part of the mechanics department. The partition between it and the room in back now used for that purpose is to be removed, thus allowing one large room. The eighth grade room also on the first floor is to be used for academic classes, Sup't. J. M. Dorrans says.

Later, further changes will be made to make more rooms, and the place will then be large enough to be used as a vocational school for some years to come. Some new equipment is being purchased.

Organize Schools, Tuesday—An event that will go down in school history will occur Tuesday, when the high school will be organized. The new high school will be organized, although classes are to be held in the same building as the new high school, as much as possible. Except on special occasions, they will not have assemblies together, and the programs and teachers are to be kept separate. All students who would otherwise be in the seventh, eighth grades or the first year in high school, will move to the new high school on Tuesday morning and organize and have their program explained to them. At one o'clock the same day, the upper classes—sophomores, juniors and seniors—will meet and form a senior school.

March to New Building—Last actual use of the old high school building will be Thursday morning, when the more than 500 pupils who are to occupy the new building are to meet at the old building at 8 a. m. and march to the new building and take possession. It will be a big event, and a large turnout of townspeople is expected. There will be two or more bands, all the pupils, teachers, and city and school officials will be present.

Cardi—Cards were given out at the school all Monday morning and informed many of those who were "on the fence" which school they will be attending Tuesday. The new high school will be organized on Tuesday morning at 1:30 p. m. for the junior faculty at 1:30 p. m. Information was given to them at that time, and each was assigned his or her classes.

Expert Testifies as to Signature on Fitch's Deed

Briefs having been filed, an early decision is expected from Judge George Gilman in the litigation over the bankruptcy of James E. Fitch, Janesville grocer. The issue at stake is the allegation made by attorneys for the creditors that Fitch decided over property owned by his wife shortly before going into court to settle the claims against him.

A deed issued by the defendant carries much importance to the case. James E. Fitch, Janesville grocer, examined a number of questionable documents, testified during the hearing in the Rock county circuit court, investigation shows exact similarity on the part of the questioned documents. They are often called upon to determine the age of a paper, a signature, the handwriting, and the ink. They are "paper" detectives.

The age of an ink signature can be told fairly accurately within a year and a half, without the aid of a microscope. There is a chemical change taking place after the ink is applied to the paper, which takes place between 12 and 18 months to complete. Age on typewritten documents can be determined, it is declared, by the amount of "wear" of the typed letters, and the wear of the type is a certain mark of typewriters. There is proof that not even two typewriters of the same make and model will write exactly the same.

Age on paper can be determined, especially on bond paper, having water-marks. These secret marks are changed at the mill and forged old paper is brought into the market several times, prepared on paper that was only marketed within a few months before the date of the trial.

A Janesville expert was called here to testify as to a signature on a property deed.

Masses in Japan Through with War, Says Missionary

At a lecture at the Congregational church here, Sunday, Marion E. Hall, a missionary worker in Japan, told of the progress of the war in Japan, and spoke of the attitude of the Japanese toward other countries, declaring that the commercial standards of the Japanese are very low, and are steadily advancing. They are becoming more honest in their dealings with other countries, he said.

Chinese help is being employed in the Japanese district, he said, and then but rarely.

"The attitude of the Japanese masses toward America is very friendly," said Mr. Hall. "I asked of the Japanese three questions. They were: 'What do you think of war?' 'Your attitude toward America?' and 'the most popular man in Japan?' Their answers were that they were done with war, have a brotherly feeling toward America, and favor a social reformer in Japan."

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Pandora Nicholson is so terribly shy that meeting strangers is a painful experience. She has lived a sort of no-social life, with her Uncle Peter and Aunt Maude, and their daughter, the buxom, popular, noisy Gladys. She has been told she is stupid, ugly, nervous and is implicitly told that she believes it implicitly.

She makes no friends, there is nothing in common between herself and Gladys's friends in Norris City. These friends are happy, gay, noisy and not very popular, is attracted to her. Their friendship becomes love, her attitude to them is like her attitude to Gladys. Then Gladys decides she wants Morton, probably because he was the only one who had shown an attention to her—and goes off with him and marries him. Then Gladys herself becomes a social success. An interior decorator in New York, whom she met casual, she writes her to take charge of her small flat in the city. Then Gladys begins to find herself. She is now a social success, the friend of George Ridgeway.

CONFIDENCES

"I don't think there's much to tell," Pandora replied, trying desperately to understand it herself. "I was in love with him, I know that. Oh, I know because it hurt so awfully when he went."

"When Gladys came into it," prompted Gloria.

"Yes," Pandora said. "I liked him as I did. I should not have minded—Gladys, I shouldn't have minded so much. I suppose I would have selfishly wanted him to be in love with Gladys. But she could talk really all the things that were pointed up inside her."

"You see, no one ever liked me. Not even when I was a child. I was so frightfully ugly—"

"Poor kid, you weren't," Gloria said softly.

"Yes," Pandora said. "I was thin and nervous and had a pale face and a big mouth with huge teeth that Aunt Maude called tombstones. And I looked so dreadful in the gingham pinafore that Gladys made me wear. You see when we were little, she dressed us both alike. That is Gladys had no pinafore, and I wore them out next season—she was so much older than I was. But her hair went into nice fat curls when Aunt Maude wet it and brushed it around her fingers and made us. You see when we were little, she dressed us both alike. That is Gladys had no pinafore, and I wore them out next season—she was so much older than I was. But her hair went into nice fat curls when Aunt Maude wet it and brushed it around her fingers and made us. You see when we were little, she dressed us both alike. That is Gladys had no pinafore, and I wore them out next season—she was so much older than I was. But her hair went into nice fat curls when Aunt Maude wet it and brushed it around her fingers and made us."

"I always had to work so hard over my school. I didn't study and study I'd fail. But Gladys never paid much attention, and somehow she always managed to get through. So she wasn't stupid, as I know you think."

"There's a certain type of mind that cannot fall into the routine of school studies," Gloria explained. "Poor children, they're under such a routine; children with too much individuality are always at war with the hard and fast rules of academic studies. I fancy you were that sort."

Pan went on:

"All the teachers liked Gladys. They never cared much for me, except an old lady who was my English teacher. The rest said I had no personality. Otherwise, I never made friends—and the teacher died while I was in high school."

"Gladys grew up more popular, and somehow I felt as if I was left out."

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It

When you wash your child's hair be careful what you use. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali, which is very injurious to the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulled coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else at all to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulled in a cup of glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply rub the hair with water and rub the Mulled in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries shining, evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dirt and dandruff. You can get the Mulled coconut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulled.

WHY CHILDREN ARE SICK IN WINTER

CHILDREN get sick in winter because they don't get the needed fresh air and outdoor exercise they need and their blood gets out of order. If your children are the least bit run down, thin in flesh and subject to colds, build them up with Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It will give them a new supply of rich, red blood, give them strength and vigor, and help them to resist disease.

Your druggist has Gude's in both liquid and tablet form.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole. Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

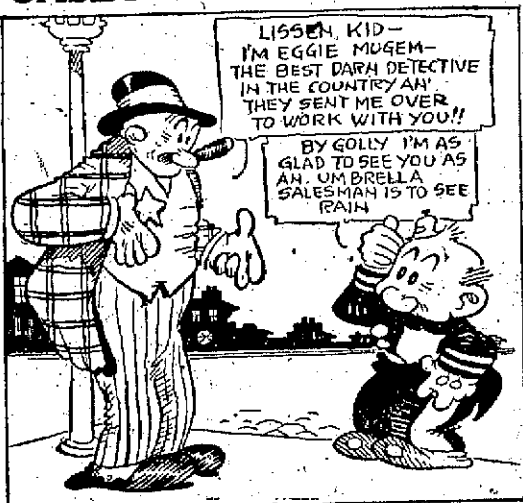

Just rub it on with your fingers. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the skin. Then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

55c and 65c. In jars and tubes. Better than a mustard plaster.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 22 years old and divorced. When I was 20 I met a young man, a stranger in town, and I fell in love with him. At first sight, I did with him. After three weeks of courtship, he wanted me to come with him and I was all so romantic I consented.

They love their son, dearly and they are fearful that you and he may not be happy together. Be tolerant and keep on trying to love with me. What has happened and do not merely surrender to conditions because at times that course seems easier. By no means give up some one you love who seems to love you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 18 and I learned to like a young man of 20. I was with him about half a year and I loved him very much. I know he loved me although he never told me so. Actions can say more than words sometimes.

My home is in another state. I came here some time ago and thought I would like to stay with my uncle until I was married. I came here because my father dislikes me. He was always very cruel and used to drink a lot. He said he was going to kill all of my brothers and sister and ever since I was a little girl I could never like him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 18 and I learned to like a young man of 20. I was with him about half a year and I loved him very much. I know he loved me although he never told me so. Actions can say more than words sometimes.

All of my relatives and friends tell me that it would be much better if I got married but I don't like any one except this young man of 20. He lived in the other state and I never told him that I was coming here, but he knows that I am here. I always think of him. Should I write him in a friendly way or should I try to forget him? Would it be the girl's place to write in a matter like this?

Write a friendly letter to the young man for whom you care so much. Since you left without telling him, naturally he would not write before he heard from you. Be cautious not to betray your love for him. If he cares for you as you think he does, he will declare his love when he feels in a position to do so.

"I suppose the Dore's Adventure will be coming to an end pretty soon," sighed Betty.

"I suppose it will," sighed Tom-to-mah, the little Indian guide who was taking her through this wonderful Hopi land. Her sigh was even sadder than Betty's.

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Forbes Kent

LARGE NOSE PORES.

The perfect complexion, like the perfect disposition, is seldom met with outside a novel. The most common complexion flaw is a collection of large pores around the nose, usually in that little curved part that outlines the nostrils or perhaps all over the nose.

However, here's the method if you find that you're a little imperfect—and you are rarely blessed if a study of your skin in strong sunlight doesn't reveal something of the sort. First, eliminate from your diet all heavy or sweet foods that you think might be taxing the digestion. Second, make sure there is no constipation.

LAYING OFF NOW A THING OF PAST

Nerves Steady and Stomach Sound, Bowel Works Regular Now—Thanks Tanlac.

"Tanalac has built me up twelve pounds, and I can hardly remember when I ever felt better," declared Leonard Eubank, 2475 Fourth St. Milwaukee, a well-known employee of the Federal Rubber Co., recently.

"I was so run-down and lacking in strength that I could hardly drag myself to work. My appetite was about gone, but no matter what I ate, the soreness, gas, pains and shortness of breath were terrible. My nerves were all upset. I had awful headaches and backaches, couldn't sleep well, and I was losing weight and feeling dull and drowsy all the time."

"Tanalac has 'twined the slate clean' and made me feel just the way I want to. I haven't a trace of the old troubles, my appetite is like a farm hand's, and man alive, how I can sleep! Now I don't have to lay off like I used to, to pull myself together for Tanlac has built me up fine."

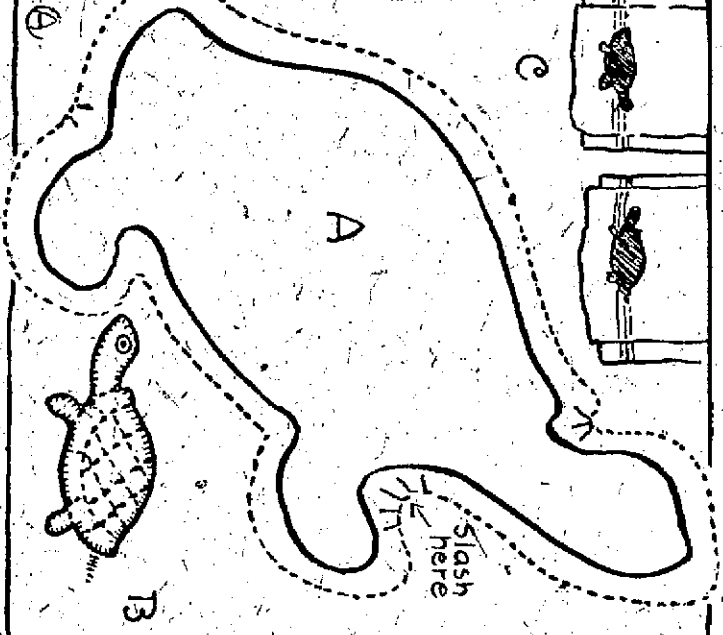

Tanalac is for sale by all good druggists.

Over 25-million bottles sold.

MERRY MAKINGS

BUILT FOR YOU BY AUNT ELSIE (ELSINORE CROWELL)

Following the dotted lines as she cut, then she faded the edges in until she had a figure just the size of the inner figure. Some of the corners were hard to turn so she cut little slashes in them and then they went easily.

After she had cut and folded, she basted a Tommy Tortoise on each corner. She next outlined him in dark blue cotton, giving him an eye, tail, and horns—dressed shell marks with the same cotton as in B. Behind him she ran several lines of dark blue stitches as in C. And there he was, so "alive" he almost bit at the nearest fly.

"I'm afraid you can hardly make a life sized Hopi Indian," said Tom-to-mah. "He'd make a VERY funny poucquet."

"I should think he would," giggled Betty. "I know what I'll do. I'll sew something for her. Little Hopi girls weave things into their baskets for their mothers—pictures of men and dogs and trees. I'll sew something into cloth for my mother. I'll sew Tommy Tortoise because he's such a funny, slow old waddler!"

"On some bath room curtains," said Betty. "Tortoise from some light blue cotton cloth she cut figures like A. She used this for an exact pattern."

They brought their locks with them. Having a substantial looking tool house, the head of the family put a big lock on the door.

The neighbors for miles around dropped into look them over, and seemed to be in a hostile mood of mind after one visit. Finally a delegation of leading farmers called on the man of the house.

"Why did you move among us if you thought we were as bad as you try to make out?" they asked.

"Well, they have the best kind of an opinion of you people."

"Well, then, why do you lock your tool house? Don't you know that nobody in Arkansas ever stole anything to work with?" Judge.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion, dark rings under your eyes, pimples, a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They build up the natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 30c.

Janesville Hockey Club Drops to Beloit Before 1,000

SPEEDY VISITORS GRAB 2 TO 0 WIN IN GREAT BATTLE

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINGLARI

Ice skating reached the height of its popularity here in recent years, when nearly 1,000 men, women and children were on the ice at the Beloit rink. The Janesville hockey team, which was defeated by Beloit in a game last night, was one of the best in the state. The game was a great battle, with both teams playing hard. The Beloit team, which was led by their captain, won the game by a score of 2 to 0. The Janesville team, which was led by their captain, played well but was unable to score.

SUNDAY was girls' day in the churches and the Y. W. C. A. of Janesville. In his sermon at the Baptist church, the Rev. R. G. Pierson said: "Girls should cultivate beauty, but not the hothouse variety. I am glad the girls of today are cultivating outdoor life and athletic vigor, caring for their physical life as well as their God-given beauty."

THIS was not all he said. He spoke of the soul of the woman. He called the soul the "glorious life beautiful, powerful, kind and sympathetic. Through these forces, these influences, the minister said, women of today are influencing the world as never before."

WHAT HAS this to do with sports? Recently the Women's Sports Federation of America was formed. Its purpose was to increase female interest in competitive athletics. It was the outgrowth of a one-time fad when outdoor life was taken up by girls who wanted to be different and find an outlet for stored up energy in physical efforts instead of in the drawing room. It was the result of a woman's liberation from old-time customs.

TURN for a moment to the male in sports. Most men are of the square, yet there are those whose influence has been hurting American athletics. This is not to say that sports are the general downfall. However, an influence that would quicken a deeper spirit of sportsmanship would be welcome.

WILL the women do it? Can they by entering sports raise the level of ideals? Taken as a whole, women have raised the standard of politics. They have raised the standards of business, for to whom else can the present wave of the "golden rule" be traced? And, since women can rise above the level of the womanhood, sports really need women's participation.

Gene Sarazen and Jack Hutchinson defeat Jack Neville and Fred Wright, California golfers, 7 and 6 in 36 hole exhibition. Walter Hagen, British, open golf champ, beats Bill Melhorn by one stroke in play-off Texas open title.

Teles-Bobby McLean broke world's skating record for 75 yards in 4.6 seconds, clipping 2-5-10. Pittsburgh beats Milwaukee, 2-1, and Detroit beats Cleveland, 2-1, in U. S. amateur hockey league. Massachusetts defeated New York, 2-1, in U. S. amateur hockey. Beloit club beats Janesville hockey players, 2-0. Fred Osterberg wins Milwaukee school boys' basketball title. The exhibition races at Chicago, national as being transferred to Johnson City, N. Y., because of weather.

Big Ten officials wondering why expenses of officials are more than the $15 paid for refereeing; action expected.

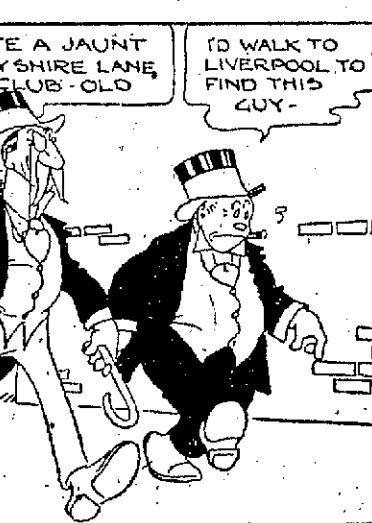

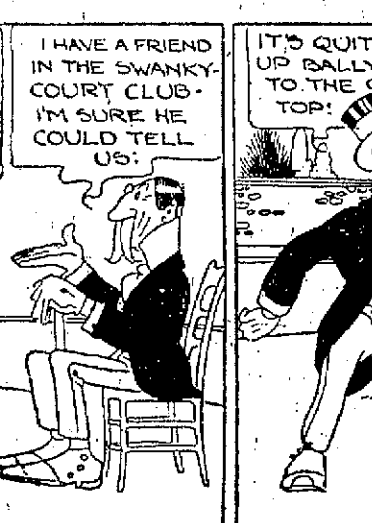

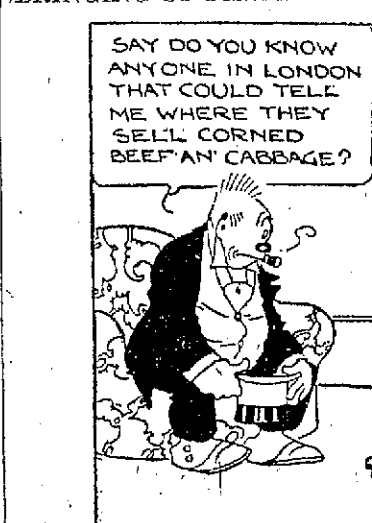

Banket Drifts—Wisconsin and Iowa still did for first in Big Ten basketball race—Ohio State and Northwestern, 2-1, Monday. Patrick's, Janesville, plays St. Thomas, Beloit, and St. Mary's of this city tonight on Prospect Monday. Lake Forest defeats Beloit college, 32-25.

Schools that cannot trust their athletes not sportsmen says Dean Briggs of Harvard.

Stove League Kinsling—Earl Sykes, Bloomington, first baseman, and St. Paul's, 2-1, Monday. Edgerton, chairman of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association, while one list of schools was issued Jan. 25, it was recalled because of several inaccuracies.

Lists of schools, which have been published in some of the newspapers of the state, are being ignored until the new bulletin is out, said Mr. Holt.

The First Christians have a snappy bunch, but look good. The Congs were lost and had no wind. St. Pauls played clear with good passing. Trinity played hard, but were outclassed.

The Black Cats led three-quarters of the way. They were on top at the end of the half, 12 to 8, Kober and Babcock having two field goals each.

The Janesville Y. W. C. A. girls' basketball team invaded Milton territory Saturday night and brought back the bacon, beating the Milton college girls quiet in the college gym, 18-9. It was a fast game which the girls of the Y. W. C. A. were chasing the girls around the floor. Fouls were few, the least number being made by the Janesville girls.

The basket eye of Miss Ward of the Y. W. C. A. was as good as usual. She chalked up five field goals and four free throws. Miss Riley was the only other scorer for Janesville. Assign Schools to Basket Meets During This Week

Assignments of high schools to the basketball tournament districts, six of which are new, are expected to be announced Saturday by Fred J. Holt, Edgerton, chairman of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association. While one list of schools was issued Jan. 25, it was recalled because of several inaccuracies.

Lists of schools, which have been published in some of the newspapers of the state, are being ignored until the new bulletin is out, said Mr. Holt.

Even when the latest assignments are sent to the schools, there may be some changes, he said. This list is now in the hands of the printer.

"The state board of control will meet at Madison next Tuesday," the editor of the bulletin said. "It is going to take a few schools from some districts and put them in others, wherever it is found advisable to do so."

Replying to criticisms made in respect to awarding one of the tournaments to Oshkosh instead of Fond du Lac, Mr. Holt said, the board decided to keep the tournaments in the hands of the normal schools and therefore kept Oshkosh.

Other trouble, however, over general high school athletic conditions is being ignored until the new bulletin is out, said Mr. Holt.

Union Doubles on Lake Mills

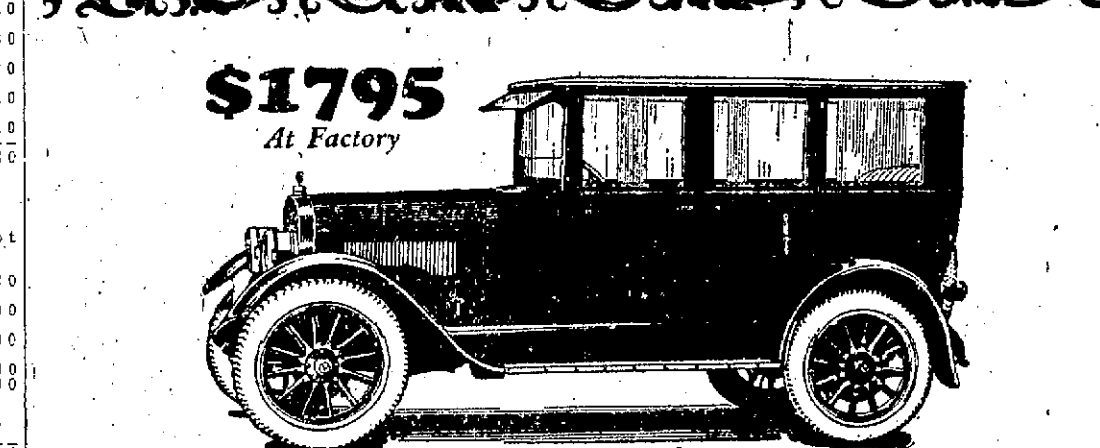

(By Gazette Correspondent.) Milton Junction—Union high school chalked up a victory Saturday night by defeating Lake Mills here, 31 to 15, in a Rock River Valley league game. After a nip and tuck battle in the first half, which ended 15-10, the Union boys came back strong in the latter stages of the fray and copped the victory with apparent ease. Lake Mills was seldom able to penetrate Union's five man defense and get within shooting distance.

Capt. Lamphere of Union was high scorer, with five baskets to his credit. Early in the game he put on a show after he had made four baskets and a free throw. Astin also made four baskets. Roach and Neff also did well work for the visitors. Union plays two league games this week, meeting Edgerton at Edgerton Wednesday night and Port Atkinson Saturday night.
